

Batterer Intervention Provider Standards Compliance Council

BIPSCC

FACT SHEET

Background

In Michigan, a Governor appointed task force that included practitioners, judges, probation, domestic violence programs, and state departments developed Standards for batterer intervention programs in 1998. The purpose for developing standards was to provide guidelines for ethical and accountable intervention systems that would protect victims and other family members; and establish a minimum level of respectful, humane, consistent, and appropriate intervention for persons convicted of a domestic violence related criminal charge.

The Batterer Intervention Services Coalition in conjunction with the Michigan Coalition Against Domestic and Sexual Violence and Department of Human Services Michigan Domestic Violence Prevention and Treatment Board, and Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan (with support from the State Court Administrators Office and the District Court Judges Association) have been meeting to design a process to 1) identify batterer intervention service providers operating in the state, and 2) determine which providers meet Michigan standards for batterer intervention service providers.

Who is the Batterer Intervention Provider Standards Compliance Committee (BIPSCC)?

The BIPSCC is a multidisciplinary group of volunteers that includes representation from probation, parole, batterer intervention programs, judges, victim service providers as well as the Department of Human Services and the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan. The committee meets monthly to review and approve applications.
